Within the last few years the marriages in the lower classes have become fewer, and in the upper communatively rare, owing to the depression in much loving man dees it, and the chances are two to one that he gets into difficulty. The general abstention in the way of marriage naturally has a corrupting influence, for man's passions are strong and the flesh is weak. Attractions and forces bring the man and "woman together in spite of themselves, and consequences result therefrom not necessary to describe. In a well-regulated sectety marriage should be within easy reach of those who want to marry; that is, the wants of the couple should be easily suspiled in the momey they possess or in the work which they can perform with their own heads and hands. If they have neither capital nor capacity for work, the union sanctioned by law is denied them. In this case the passive nature of the woman may contain itself within the bounds of a well-ordered life in accordance with the principles she has been taught. The positive nature of the man is not so easily curbed and held in subjection, and it asserts itself in a way that tends to increase the number of that body of dissolute women which marches close in the rear of every civilization. This lawless legion, in a word, grows in the rame ratio as the number of marriages decrease, and recruits are constantly being added to it through love, misery and the passions of men without marital itse.

"Come and See Me."

Nover take "Come and see me" as a phrase meant in earnest unless it is accompanied with a date. Such an invitation amounts to nothing at all. If a lady or gentleman desires your company he er she will appoint a time for your visit. "Call on me when you can make it convenient," "drop in as you are passing," "make us a visit whenever you have an hour or two to spare," are social ambiguities by which men and women of the world understand that they are not to do the thing requested. When people wish to be chesply polite there is nothing like this kind of vagueness. The complimentary small change of society must always be taken at a large discount.

MOODY AND SANKEY. NEN YORK, November 19.—Noody and Sankey are holding their final meetings in Brooklyn to-night. The rink is crowded to sufficiation. An overflowing meeting is keeing on in the Simpson church, in charge of Mr. Needham, the swangelist. Vast numbers are in the street mable to get into either building. This morning at 8 o'clock, when Mr. Moody led in the prayer meeting, 3,500 persons were present. This has been the average attendance during the last three weeks. After this expression that the street is the extense the extense of the street in the street and the street in the extense age attendance during the last three weeks. After this service the pactors of Brookiyn met and voted to continue the daily union meeting in the Second Presbyterian church. A large women's meeting was then held under the direction of Mrs. Needham, Mr. Moody began a meeting of inquiry in the Simpson church at 10 o'clock this morning and continued it until 4 o'clock this evening. He then went to the Tabernacle to give his usual Hible readings. The multitude gathered was so great that the gates of the building had to be locked half hour before Mr. Moody came. An overwhelming meeting was held in an adjoining church by Mr. Needham. Thousands left who were unable to get into either building. Mr. Moody spoke fereibly on faith and closed with a meet touching prayer, which melted the crowded and assembly to tears. Mr. Wm. E. Dodge and many from abroad were present. The chief power of the Brooklyn revival has been felt among the young men. Hundreds have been hopefully converted. The young men's meetings are to be continued every evening under the leadership of Mr. Hall, of Washington, D. C. In return for the blessings of God upon this feature of the work, Mr. Moody proposed Feetarday a thank offering to be contributed to sustain the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian Association. About alto,000 have been paid in or pledged already. The funds necessary to pay for all the public services, printing, a.c., have all been raised. The committies of arrangements, Menrs, McWilliams, Pratt, Marvin, Wickes, French, Track and A. S. Barnes, have issued over 125,000 tickets of admission to the rink and to the young men's meeting at the Tabernaele within the last ten days. It is estimated that over 200,000 persons have attended upon the meetings of Moody and Sankry during their visit to Brooklyn. The number of converts it is of course very difficult to determine.

ALMOST BREATHLESS

It is very large, and it will now be left to the pasters of the different churches to look after these converts, and also to carry forward the revival work so auspiclousity commenced. The can be readily heard in any part of it. In addition to the main audience hall, there are three large inquiry rooms and a vestibule, 33 feet wide, running around three sides of the building, from which there is egress by ten-feet doers, opening upon Market, Thirteenth and Juniper streets. The three large doors opening from Market street, with a vestibule 33 feet wide running the width of the building, will be the place of entrance, and the four large doors opening into the main asles, running the length of the hall, will be the doors of admission to it. There are four cross asless, to 10 feet wide, as well as a wide asse running clear around the audience room. The building is heated by steam, supplied by a hundred horsepower boiler. It is lighted by eleven large reflectors down the centre of the hall and sixty rings, and a series of parallel jets running around the building, making in all about one thousand burners. A choir of fire hundred voices is in training, and the service of song will be led by it under the leadership of Mr. Sankey. A class of three thousand Christian workers, selected by the ministers from all the churches of the city for services in the inquiry rooms, is being trained by the Rev. Richard Newton, D. D., of the Episcopal Church; Rev. R. M. Haifield, D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Rev. W. P. Breed, D. D., of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. J. Wheaton Smith, D. The cost of all the immense preparations will be about $60,000, and it is expected, from present indications, that no call-for contributions will have to be made, but that the money will be the spontaneut. The revival meetings begin on Sunday morning.

St. Louis, Nov. 19.—The United States Courtroom was again crowded to.day, and the interest in the trial of General McDenald is undiminished.

Joseph Gross was the first witness. He testified that he was bookkeeper at Eusby's distillery in 1874; it made crooked whisky from April to July; we made 350 barrels; we used stamps as long as they would wear; our buyers returned them to us: I paid to Fistrey at different times $250, $460, $505, $41.207 and $23.50; was dismissed from Busby's employ because, as Busby told me. Magnire stated the ring could not be well formed with me in the place; am not under indictment, and not employed in the post office.

John McFall testified: Was United States gauger about one year; was employed at several distilleries; had talks with Everest, Fitzrey and Joyce about whisky; collected money and made it up is seafed packages; was instructed by Joyce to let Utrici run crooked; the gaugers and store-keepers received from one to two dollars per barrel; Joyce told me this was all right; supposed the money was raised for political purposes; did not know who was in the ring until after the raids made last spring.

Wm. J. Bassett, testified: Was a Government gauger in 1874, and worked at several distilleries and rectifying houses. When a barrel measured forty-dree gallons I would make out a stamp for that quantity, while content with the slocal omeers; I remaindered in the fall of 1874, about the time I was observed in the constant of the consta

Attorney Generalship of Maryland-Attorney Generalship of Maryland.

Baltrinous, Nov. 19.—In his letter, notifying Governor Groome that he contests the election of Charles J. M. Gwin as attorney general of this State, Mr. Wallis says: "I respectfully insist that the election in the city of Baltimore was rendered wholly void by fraud, intimidation and violence, and that the returns of the city cannot be lawfully counted. The fraud and violence to which I allude were of so gross a character as to be a matter of public notoriety and universal concess.

Arrest of Three Noted Thieves.

Philadelphia. Nov. 18.—Detectives to-day made an important capture, taking into custody four noted burglars, three of whom have chieny operated in New York. The names of the parties taken in custody are William Gray, James D. Austin, Richard Smith and James Christy. Gray is well known in police circles, having previously operated as a badger thief. Austin goes under the alias of Matt Downey. He, together with Smith and Christy, have confined their burglarious operations chiefly in New York, from where they originally hall. The capture was made in the central part of the city, where the burglars had taken rooms in a respectable boarding-house. The detectives are at present sugged in working up evidence against the 'jarties, and further discioures will show that the arrest is a very important one.

New York, Nov. 19.—Plymouth lecture-room was crowded this evening, and the burden of Mr. Beecher's talk was as to the proper course for Plymouth church to pursue in the furtherance of the revival work after the departure of Moody and Sankey, giving it as his opinion that to attempt to carry on great meetings would be a mistalize, that every church should exert itself in its own way, and they would reap abundantly, as he hoped to do. At the close of the meeting notices were read from a few church members desiring letters of dismission and recommendation to other churches.

Washington and Ohlo Railway.

PHILADRIPHIA, Nov. 12.—To day a delegation of West Virginia capitalists and land-holders held an informal meeting in this city in reference to the extension of the Washington and Chio railroad. Among those present were Col. John E. Wood, Hon. Alex. R. Beteler and Hoc. Jas. D. Armstrong. Colanel Wood had an interview with Colonel Thos. A. Scott on the subject. If the extensions as proposed is carried out, it is said that traffic will be diverted from the Baltimore and Ohlo railroad.

fication, are but counterparts of another definition of the law of stavism found in hereditary quality to sing, act ride in the circus and perform aerobatic feats. There are families of fine singers like the Pattis; families of great actors like the Kembles, Keans, Jeffersons, Booths and Wallachs; families of great Pantaloons, Harlequins, clowns and Columbines like the Foxes, the Ravels, Adams Zanfreitzs and Bashelts; families great in circus fame like the Kings Stones, Cooks, Lowlands, Stickneys and Gardners, and in this mention a volume might be filled.

The child who performs on the stage or in the circus is, with rare exceptions, the child of parents engaged in the same business. The amusement protession is exceedingly clannish, marrying among themselves, and it is from the in-breeding for generations the results known as "initiat prodigies" come, and to-day, in a census of the children of the world numbering many millions, not more than a hundred of these performing children could probably be found. They are born to it, appearing first, for instance, as the baby in the farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White;" subsequently in child's parts written expressly for them, and then, in age, as stars. These children, controlled in their course of life by nature's law of heredity, cannot well do otherwise than obey it, and its recompenses are such that hight work does not hurt them as it would children differently constituted, and sympathy over their "and fate" is sill wasted, and the "philantbropy" which tears them from natural protectors may well be questioned, as in the late Washington case. The field this discussion opens up is a wide one, but enough has been taid to indicate its character, and the possi-THE SULTAN WILLING TO REPORM.
